900 Video Door Telephone System with Porter Calling

Calling: When either there is a visitor at the street door or a porter is calling, the internal buzzer in the telephone will sound.

Operation: Lifting the handset will provide audio communication with the caller; if desired the monitor can be activated and will stay on for about 90 seconds by pressing the  $\textcircled{1}$  (on) button on the monitor. To switch the monitor off before its timeout press the  $\textcircled{0}$  (off) button.

Porter Calling: To call the porter, lift the handset and press the lower button marked  $\textcircled{E}$ .

Remote Door Release: To admit a caller at the door, the occupant can release the door by pressing either the button marked  $\ominus$  on the monitor or the button marked  $\textcircled{K}$  on the telephone.

Door speech priority: The system is designed to allow a caller at the door to interrupt an internal conversation with the porter.
